Stellar Technology to re-brand as Fonseka Innovations

[Friday, 1st September 2017] Born under the Stellar umbrella as a business unit, Stellar Technology recently decided to take the big-step to form as a separate entity. This is a big step for Stellar Technology after nearly 2 years in incubation. As part of this new development, Stellar Technology will transition into a new brand during the remainder of this year with a view to brand launch in December.

With Stellar's focus on recruitment, Fonseka Innovations is an exciting fresh new brand with technology in mind. Fonseka Innovations pays homage to the founding ownership and the innovation focus of services provided. Apart from small refinements in services provided, its business as usual as Fonseka Innovations brand looks to build on the back of two tremendous years as Stellar Technology.

Fonseka Innovations is looking forward to continuing as a trusted technology partner. The new brand portrays the strong family values both within the organisation and externally with clients. Our new symbol is defined by the infinite pursuit of perfection in our craft, the iterative nature of development, the fluctuating startup journeys, the passion to change the world for better and the desire to ignite a bright spark to a flaming success.

Fonseka Innovations is paving a new way for businesses and start-ups to grow their ideas from concept to production. As specialists in commercializing innovation, a full range of development and support services are provided to clients to achieve this.
